

The Dash between Birth and Death

The only thing making life worth living are the things you give away!
Life is not about getting. It should be about giving. Live to give to others.
So with what God has already provided you, do your best for someone else!
Spend time, make time for others...Love is genuine appreciation for one another.

Ray House 2003