

What Will It Take?

Let's take a few moments to reflect. How many people did you see yesterday? If it was a weekday, you may have drove past hundreds going to school or work. After arriving, you may have greeted or talked with many before it was time to go. Were you able to teach any of these people you saw the truth about salvation?

I'm not sure what time of the day you are reading -or- hearing these words. This morning, I was asked to open up the door for a tenant who forgot her key. Then a coworker said, "The custodians only put the trash next to the dumpster." We read in Revelation about Jesus shutting the door. Then He burns the trash.

Through the use of technology, our ability to share the truth is much easier today. We also need to realize this can be a trap reducing our amount of communication. When Jesus shuts the door, there will not be another chance to do what He told us. Will today end like yesterday? What will it take for us to be a beacon of light?

Years ago, I met a man who wanted to know the truth about God and eternal life. After sitting in church 50 years, he started reading the Bible beginning at page one. Some passages read different than preached and there were parts he had not heard. How important is heaven to you? What will it take for you to read the Bible?

If you fell and broke your leg, most doctors have the training to repair your bone. Has your doctor ever had a long conversation with you about health and nutrition? "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." God has made it simple for us. Your eternal life is at risk! What will it take for you to teach others the truth?
