

Your Future Child

Years and years ago, God placed me into you while you were still inside your mother's womb. Some have labeled me as an egg; you can call me "GG" for a short X chromosome nickname. Each month one of us leaves; wake up the house, if there's only a limited supply of eggs still left! If you're a younger female and God's monthly cycles have not started yet; later, I'll show it to you.

Right now, I am an X waiting for another X to become a girl or a Y from my future daddy to become a boy. After he gives you his gift, they can live for 48 hours. Upon my release, I'm receptive to his gift up to 24 hours. Then, there will be about nine months were you will both have to wait because I'll be growing inside your womb. Some people have figured how to take pictures of a developing human; rest assured, one day I'll look like you.

(It's true) Years and years ago, God placed me into you while you were still inside your mother's womb. Now both you & your man have caused me to become fertilized, when egg & sperm start to make a baby. (From that point forward) I will be mostly sleeping and growing; but, I promise when both my arms and legs are fully developed to touch you and kick you, so you will personally know that I am alive and still inside of you!

When a woman gently whispers in her man's ear on their wedding night, "Let's make a baby." The course is set. Our Creator gave us life; He made us to be male and female. When a couple becomes one, life is ready to begin. (To my future mom) Let me assure you I'm not a weed; please don't let someone un-attach or pull me out of you. Like the rose plant still growing; it will one day show God's beautifully created pink rose with its unique fragrance even a blind person can remember the individual smell 10, 20, or 50 years later...please don't throw me away. If we've made some grammar mistakes, maybe you'll want to tell me about the solutions when I'm a little older.

I'm sure that you'll teach me about family, kindness and love; where some would teach me $2 + 2 = 0$. Be careful of those who don't speak the truth. Our heavenly father gives perfect gifts, when your egg plus dad's sperm combine "inside your gift-box" there will be a new soul "a baby" in your womb and Heaven's light shines!

With a generous supply of love, hugs, and kisses...Your Future Child.

Signed XX: E. "GG" Lizabeth with the assistance of Ray House 2005